

Texas Eagle Forum

April 2018

Dear Eagles,

I hope you are enjoying some of the lovely spring weather we are having. Spring is a beautiful time of the year... God's creation is in full bloom!

With the primaries, precinct, and senate/county conventions finally over, we at Texas Eagle Forum are looking ahead to the Republican State Convention in June in San Antonio. I am so proud of Eagles serving on convention committees, as well as many others who will be attending as delegates or alternatives. Important work ahead of us all!

Before then, however, are important local city and school board elections on May 6, and, of course, the run-offs on May 22. Both of these elections typically have a low voter turnout, but I am confident you and your like-minded friends will be out in force! Our run-off endorsements are on TEF's website, www.texaseagle.org.

While spring is a time of rebirth and renewal, sadly, over the last several months, a few people very dear to me have passed away. Most of these precious individuals were in their eighties or nineties and, honestly, were far more passionate about life than most folks my own age. Many of them still saw great hope for our nation, which seems to grow more divided every day. We must be united as a people and a nation. And that is why you and I must continue to be engaged in defending our Judeo-Christian values to make sure our children and grandchildren remain free.

As I sat at the funeral of one of my Dad's oldest and dearest friends, my nine-year-old son quietly slipped his arm around my Dad's shoulders and just sat with him. For some reason that moment gave me hope beyond just the immediate comfort to my Dad. It spoke to something deeper: a little action can still make a big difference. I want to encourage you to do what may seem like a small act in the big scheme of things. But even small things, such as a smile or a hug, can make a huge difference.

Speaking of making differences, please take a moment and say a prayer for our leaders and then pray for those who oppose us. "The fervent prayer of a righteous man avails much." (James 5:16). I believe with all my heart that our nation will turn around because of praying people. People, like you, who truly care, are willing to take action, look for truth, and try to live out godly principles. We may never know what one vote or one phone call can do, but many of those seemingly insignificant "little actions" can change the course of a law or a political race or a human life.

Continue to look for important and timely information coming on our website and our Facebook page about how you can be involved in the several critical areas we are working on: helping believers in the persecuted church, working to win the war on human trafficking, and pushing back against groups targeting some of our best and brightest on the front lines seeking to share truth!

God bless you!

President of Texas Eagle Forum

P.S. We are so grateful for your prayers and financial support as we move forward in tackling the culture war. Thank you in advance for your generous gifts!
